

Historical Studies in Education / Revue d'histoire de l'éducation
CONTRIBUTORS / COLLABORATEURS

Contributors / Collaborateurs

HILDA T.A. AMSING is an assistant professor at the University of Groningen, Department of Education. She has a Master's in educational sciences and a PhD in the field of the history of education. Her PhD dissertation, published in 2002, is about the history of Dutch secondary education 1860–1920. Her published articles include studies of the Dutch school system. Her current research focuses on educational innovation in the post war era.

A.J. ANGULO is an associate professor of Social Foundations at Winthrop University. He is the author of William Barton Rogers and the Idea of MIT (2009) and a forthcoming study on the role of education in American foreign policy. His other research interests include education in the Old and New South, the history of science and its relationship to the development of schools, colleges, and universities, and the intersection between educational policy and student rights.

CATHERINE ANNE BROOM is an assistant professor at the University of British Columbia, Okanagan. She has more than 17 years of university and high school teaching experience in Canada and overseas. She has written on the history of modern schooling; postmodern theories and methods; critical thinking; social studies history, methods, and philosophies; and local and global citizenship.

ANDRÉE DUFOUR détient un doctorat en histoire de l'Université du Québec à Montréal. Ses recherches portent sur l'évolution socioculturelle et politique du Québec au XIX<sup>e</sup> siècle. Son principal champ d'étude est toutefois l'éducation. Elle a publié à ce sujet Tous à l'école. État, communautés rurales et scolarisation au Bas-Canada, 1826–1859 (1996), Histoire de l'éducation au Québec (1997), Brève histoire des institutrices au Québec (2004) et maints articles qui lui ont valu de remporter à quatre reprises un Prix des Fondateurs et, tout récemment, le Prix de distinction de carrière pour sa « contribution remarquable à l'avancement de l'histoire de l'éducation au Canada » de l'ACHÉ/CHEA. Elle fut pendant 10 ans la rédactrice francophone de la HSE/RHÉ. Elle enseigne l'histoire au Cégep Saint-Jean-sur-Richelieu.

LARRY A. GLASSFORD is a professor of history and social studies in the Faculty of Education at the University of Windsor. He has published articles in the history and politics of Ontario education, and is the author of Reaction and Reform: The Politics of the Conservative Party Under R. B. Bennett, 1927–38 (1992). Other research interests include citizenship education, the scope and methodology of political biography, and the intersection of drama and history.

LELAND GRAHAM is a graduate student at Winthrop University. His primary fields of research include American social history and twentieth-century diplomacy. He is currently completing work on his thesis, “Une Certaine Idée de la France: Competing Visions of Post-War France. He also works as Project Manager for the Olde English Consortium, an academic cooperative promoting excellence in public education through collaboration in north-central South Carolina.

PAUL GRAYSON is professor of sociology at York University in Toronto. He has published widely on Canadian social movements, the sociology of Canadian literature, and the causes and consequences of plant shutdowns in Canada. For several years he has examined the degree to which the sex, class, ethno-racial origin, and cultural capital of university students structures their experiences and contingent educational outcomes. Most recently, using hitherto unanalyzed information from Glendon College, the original campus of York University, he has examined the identities, politics, and religion of students in the 1960s.

FRANCES HELYAR is an assistant professor of Education and Interdisciplinary Studies at Lakehead University, Orillia campus, where she specializes in teaching Educational Law, Foundations, and Teaching in a non-school pedagogic site. She received her doctoral degree from McGill University. Her research on the history of education during World War I and the 1920s focuses on the province of New Brunswick as well as Simcoe County, Ontario, paying particular attention to national identity, language and religion.

KATHLEEN YOLANDE SHARMAN is a PhD student in the Faculty of Education at the University of Windsor. Her interest in technical high schools stems back to her own education at a vocational school and her experience as a vocational high school teacher. This interest turned into a master's thesis entitled, “The Origins and Significance of the Toronto Technical School, 1897–1904.” Her doctoral dissertation will focus on a technical high school in Windsor that is now closed, W.D. Lowe Technical School.

KAY WHITEHEAD is a professor in the School of Education at Flinders University. Her historical research focuses on nineteenth and early twentieth-century women educators in Australia, Canada and the United Kingdom, as well as post-suffrage feminism and transnational discourses of education.

Historical Studies in Education / Revue d'histoire de l'éducation
GUIDELINES / DIRECTIVES

Guidelines for Authors

Authors interested in publishing in the Journal must follow the guidelines outlined below. Submissions which do not conform to these guidelines will not be considered for publication.

For English manuscripts, follow Chicago Manual of Style (15th ed.) and Oxford Canadian Dictionary or Concise Oxford Dictionary spelling. Text and endnotes should be written in Times New Roman font, size 12, and must be double-spaced (1.5 lines). Please use endnotes rather than footnotes. Titles, subtitles, and heading styles have a standard format. Please consult the last issue and conform to this style. MS Word or RTF files are accepted.

Authors must submit electronically by uploading to the HSE website (OJS) or sending the submission to the Managing Editor via e-mail attachment. Registration and login to the Historical Studies in Education website are required to submit items to the Journal and to check the status of current submissions. For more information concerning submissions procedures please refer to the following URL: http://library.queensu.ca/ojs/index.php/edu\_hse-rhe/about\_submissions#onlineSubmissions or go to http://library.queensu.ca/ojs/index.php/edu\_hse-rhe/information/authors to begin the submission process.

Each article should be accompanied by an English or French abstract of 100–150 words, a list of six key words in French and English, and an author biography of not more than 100 words in English for English articles or in French for French articles. Supplementary files such as data sets, graphics, research instruments etc. may also be submitted. Supplementary materials should be submitted as separate files, clearly marked and referenced with short descriptive titles. Additional information (such as legends) should be added as a note. Their placement in the text must be clearly marked.

Manuscripts must normally adhere to the following size limitations:

- 9,500 words maximum for articles, including endnotes but excluding abstract/résumé;
- 2,500 words maximum for submissions to the section “Growing Up In;” and
- 1,000 words maximum for book reviews.

Authors transfer copyright to the Journal, which then permits authors non-commercial use of the work, including the right to place it in an open access archive. It is expected that authors will provide written acknowledgement of the Historical Studies in Education Journal as the primary publishing source when using the work in other venues.

Articles must report original work. The submission of a manuscript to the Journal implies that it has not been submitted or accepted for publication elsewhere, and that the work contained therein is the author's own.

All article submissions must pass a peer review process following blind review protocol. Therefore authors must ensure that steps are taken to preserve author anonymity by removing names and other identifying information from manuscripts and from document/file properties.

Authors whose manuscripts are accepted for publication may be asked to supply a final copy, and an abstract, on diskette and/or by e-mail attachment.

This journal supports the elimination of sexual, racial, and ethnic stereotyping.

Format For References (Samples):

1. Jean-Pierre Proulx, "L'évolution de la législation relative au système électoral scolaire québécois (1829–1989)," Historical Studies in Education/Revue d'histoire de l'éducation 10, 1 & 2 (1998): 20-48.
2. Neil Sutherland, Growing Up: Childhood in English Canada from the Great War to the Age of Television (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1997), 12-24.
3. Proulx, "L'évolution de la législation," 24.
4. Ibid., 25.
5. Sutherland, Growing Up, 106-7.
6. Ruby Heap and Alison Prentice, eds., Gender and Education in Ontario: An Historical Reader (Toronto: Canadian Scholars' Press, 1991).
7. University of Toronto Archives (UTA), B74-0020, Mossie May Waddington Kirkwood, transcript of her interview with Elizabeth Wilson, 27 Mar. 1973, 57.
8. Cathy L. James, "Gender, Class and Ethnicity in the Organization of Neighbourhood and Nation: The Role of Toronto's Settlement Houses in the Formation of the Canadian State, 1902 to 1914" (PhD diss., University of Toronto, 1997), 115-16.
9. UTA, Office of the President (Falconer Papers), A67-0007/112, File 19, "Matriculation Conference," Gordon to Falconer, 24 Apr. 1928.
10. Elizabeth Smyth, "'A Noble Proof of Excellence': The Culture and Curriculum of a Nineteenth-Century Ontario Convent Academy," in Gender and Education, ed. Heap and Prentice, 273-75.
11. Daniel Tröhler, "History and Historiography of Education: Some remarks on the utility of historical knowledge in the age of efficiency," in Encounters on Education/Encuentros sobre Educación/Rencontres sur l'Éducation, 7 (2006): 5, <http://educ.queensu.ca/publications/encounters/volume7/trohler.pdf> (accessed October 12, 2007).

Lignes directrices pour les auteur-es

Les auteurs-es intéressés-es à publier leur texte dans la revue sont priés de suivre les directives ci-dessous. Les manuscrits qui ne seraient pas conformes à ces directives ne seront pas retenus.

Les manuscrits doivent être inédits. L'envoi d'un texte à la Revue suppose que le travail réalisé est le propre de l'auteur-e et qu'aucune partie substantielle dudit texte n'a été préalablement soumise pour publication ou déjà publiée ailleurs.

La RHE est une revue à comité de lecture. Tous les manuscrits sont soumis à un processus d'évaluation à l'aveugle par les pairs. Les auteurs doivent donc prendre toutes les mesures afin de demeurer anonymes, en enlevant de leur texte leur nom ou toute autre information susceptible de permettre de les identifier.

L'espace étant limité, les auteurs sont priés de s'en tenir aux nombres de mots suivants :

- 9 500 mots pour les articles, y compris les notes de fin de document;
- 2 500 mots pour les textes à paraître dans les rubriques « Grandir en... » et « Histoire de vie scolaire »;
- 1 000 mots pour les comptes rendus.

Pour les manuscrits soumis en français, l'ouvrage de référence est le Chicago Manual of Style (15<sup>e</sup> éd.). Le texte et les notes doivent être en Times New Roman, de taille 12 et à interligne double. Veuillez utiliser les notes de fin de document plutôt que les notes de bas de page. Les titres et les sous-titres doivent être de format normal. Veuillez, à cette fin, consulter le dernier numéro de la revue. Les fichiers sous format MS Word ou RTF sont acceptés.

Les auteurs-es doivent télécharger une copie de leur texte sur le site web (OJS) de la RHE ou encore envoyer une copie de leur texte par poste électronique, en fichier attaché, au Secrétariat à la rédaction. Tous les articles doivent être accompagnés d'un résumé en français ou en anglais de 100 à 150 mots, d'une liste de mots clés en français et en anglais, et d'une notice biographique ne dépassant pas 100 mots, en français pour les articles en français et en anglais pour les articles en anglais. Des documents supplémentaires (ensemble de données, graphiques, photos, etc.) peuvent aussi être fournis dans des fichiers séparés, clairement identifiés et munis d'une courte description. Les informations additionnelles (telles des légendes) doivent être ajoutées sous la forme d'un commentaire. Les auteurs doivent indiquer clairement leur emplacement dans le texte.

Les auteurs-es dont le manuscrit a été accepté pour publication doivent fournir une version définitive et un résumé du manuscrit sur disquette ou par poste électronique, en fichier attaché.

La Revue encourage la suppression de tout stéréotype sexuel, racial ou ethnique.

Modèle de notation des références

1. Jean-Pierre Proulx, « L'évolution de la législation relative au système électoral scolaire québécois (1829–1989) », Historical Studies in Education/Revue d'histoire de l'éducation 10, 1 & 2 (1998) : 20-48.
2. Neil Sutherland, Growing Up: Childhood in English Canada from the Great War to the Age of Television (Toronto : University of Toronto Press, 1997), 12-24.
3. Proulx, « L'évolution de la législation », 24.
4. Ibid., 25.
5. Sutherland, Growing Up, 106-107.
6. Ruby Heap and Alison Prentice, eds., Gender and Education in Ontario : An Historical Reader (Toronto : Canadian Scholars' Press, 1991).
7. University of Toronto Archives (UTA), B74-0020, Mossie May Waddington Kirkwood, transcript of her interview with Elizabeth Wilson, 27 Mar. 1973, 57.
8. Centre d'archives de la Côte-du-Sud et du Collège de Sainte-Anne (CASA), Fonds Collège de Sainte-Anne, Programmes d'études, Plan raisonné d'un cours d'études pour le Collège de Sainte-Anne, 17 novembre 1828.
9. Jean-Philippe Croteau, Le financement des écoles publiques à Montréal (1869–1973) : deux poids, deux mesures, thèse de doctorat (histoire), Université du Québec à Montréal, 2006, 115-116.
10. Miguel Simao Andrade, « La CECM et l'intégration des minorités ethniques : de la foi à la langue », dans Jean-Michel Lacroix et Paul-André Linteau, dir. Vers la construction d'une citoyenneté canadienne (Paris : Presses de la Sorbonne Nouvelle, 2006), 49-76.
11. Laurier Lacroix, « Les collections muséales au Québec », Observatoire des musées [en ligne], <http://www.smq.qc.ca/mad/collections/articles/histoirecoll/index.php>.

Historical Studies in Education, produced and distributed by York University's Faculty of Education for the Canadian History of Education Association, is a bilingual journal which provides a forum for scholarship in the history of Canadian and international education and related subjects. In addition to scholarly articles, the Journal publishes research notes, book reviews, essays and a bibliography.

La Revue d'histoire de l'éducation est éditée pour l'Association canadienne d'histoire de l'éducation et produite et distribuée par la Faculté d'éducation de l'Université York. La revue se veut un forum de diffusion pour tous les chercheurs et chercheuses œuvrant dans le domaine de l'histoire de l'éducation au Canada ou à l'étranger. En plus d'articles scientifiques, la revue publie également des notes de recherche, des comptes rendus, des essais critiques et une bibliographie.